

Internationally recognized tiger preservationist

Anthony Marr

speaks on

Endangered Species Preservation and Presents his

Tigers Forever

Slide Show

Parkwood Branch of Durham Public Library

5122 Revere Rd, Durham 27713 919-560-0260

January 10, 2004

4:00 to 5:30 PM

Anthony Marr has led three deep-rural-India tiger saving expeditions, as well as conducted undercover operations in urban settings to catch smugglers and traders of endangered species products. He was honored as the “Champion of the Bengal Tiger”

in the TV documentary series

Champions of the Wild aired in 20 countries on

Discovery Channel, Animal Planet & Knowledge Network

For all ages!

Sponsored by Triangle Vegetarian Society, www.trianglevegsociety.org, 919-489-3340

Anthony is touring, along with nutritionist and author Brenda Davis, the US on a 40-state tour September 2003 to April 2004. His 400-image slideshow on the Bengal Tiger has been very well received in schools, libraries & for general audiences, and has been seen by over 120,000 students in hundreds of schools on three continents. Join Brenda for her talk on nutrition and Mad Cow Disease Jan. 6 for dinner at Spice Street in Chapel Hill (RSVP by email to barman@cs.unc.edu) and/or Anthony and Brenda for a vegetarian potluck dinner 7p after the library talk at the Durham Friends Meeting House (404 Alexander Ave near Duke).